Technical support _ Initial Formulation Service

Shanghai Chineway can provide a special, confidential service. Our technical team can provide initial formulation for instant and controlled release oral solid dosage forms. In fact, finished drugs development should be a systematic materials engineering of API and excipients. Our technical team have received systematic training from international pharmaceutical excipients manufacturers, combined with the practical projects developed in the laboratory. Therefore, using our in-depth understanding and application research of excipients on the global scale, we can provide quick initial formulation services. We hope that by reducing the development time for pharmaceutical formulations, which can shorten development process, while Chineway regulatory and registration professional services will also match relevant excipients so as to shorten the time to market.

Our technical team can recommend initial formulations with production technologies so that you can choose the easy production process.

We turn your formulation problems into solutions save yourself the surprises when you're looking for a partner, come straight to Chineway...
